NIGHT RIDERS

GET ATTENTION

Government Agents Carry on Investigation - Bureau of Additional Agents Reported from Texas and Third Five in Arkansas.

The federal authorities have taken confidence of the activities of night riders in the South, who are waging a campaign to keep cotton off the market until it reaches a price of 40 cents a pound by threatening to destroy this season's crop. Agents are warning to discontinue operation until that price is realized.

The department of justice has announced that the agents in the affected areas had been instructed to investigate instances where federal laws relating to interference with shipment of interstate commerce might have been violated.

Department of justice agents have been investigating the destruction of a cotton gin and warehouse at Cameron, Texas, Sunday morning, with loss estimated at $1,000,000, according to A. J. Dossert, owner of the property who returned to Waco from Cameron.

The burning of two more gins has been reported from Texas. One at night with a loss placed at $6,000. Pursley was destroyed Tuesday while the other, at Branchville, near Cameron, was burned Monday night with loss of approximately $10,000. Both fires are believed to have been of incendiary origin.

The posting of warnings on gins in Arkansas is continuing. Agents at Lavaca, near Fort Smith discovered, at places on their plants with this inscription:

"Don't start this gin until 60 days if the wheels turn you know the results - unless the prices get right."

Guards were placed about the gins and the owners were asked to inform farmers to determine what course to pursue.

Several additional gins in Morgan county, Alabama, were told after the receipt of warnings to discontinue ginning.

WARN OF SLACK PERIOD

Head of Employment Bureau Foresees Scarcity of Work in Cities.

Employment agencies of both the Baltimore Army and the Knights of Columbus indicate that jobs will soon be scarce in cities, in reports made public in New York city.

During the week of September 26, for the first time in two years, as many men were found seeking work as there were jobs available, the five Baltimore Army committees, which in New York city reported. There was a falling off in demand for unskilled workers, the report added, adding that it was altogether possible that the near future would see a return of the condition where there are more men than jobs.

After a three-month survey of Knights of Columbus employment bureaus, W. J. McGinley, supreme secretary warned young men from agricultural districts to keep away from the cities.

REVENUE BUREAU IS AFTER FOREIGN SHIPS

Washington, Oct. 11. - Seizure and sale of foreign ships violating American prohibition laws is under consideration by the bureau of internal revenue at New York city.

The factor meeting Mrs. Mary M. Shepard, a sister of the girl's father. She died suddenly September 4th at her summer home at Annapolis, Md., and her estate, valued at about a million dollars. She was named as the child's guardian.

"Evidence gathered by federal enforcement agents" was said to have disclosed that masters of foreign ships frequently conspired with their agents to violate the prohibition laws. The supplies of alcohol on board were greatly increased along the eastern seaboard by this means, it was said.

MANGLED WOMAN CARRIED FOR MILE ON TRUCK FENDER

Army Corporal Driving Truck Was Taken Induced to Carry Woman - Corporal Is in Jail.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 10. - Mrs. Florence Martin, aged 70, who was accompanying Myrtle Van Hyser, nine-year-old girl, when they were run down and instantly killed by a government truck at Knoxville, Ga. early Saturday morning, succumbed to injuries at a local hospital.

Members of a dancing party, who were on the truck, have stated, according to Attorney General George W. Chambliss, that Mrs. Martin was carried for a mile on the fender after being struck before the truck was induced to stop and investigate the accident. The soldier was surrendered to the civil authorities by officers at Fort Oglethorpe and will be given a hearing before a military court.

ROCK HILL IN A MESS

That our good neighbor, Rock Hill is in a mess over the sale of sewer and water extension and street improvement bonds is evident by the mass meetings and publicity being given the matter in that town.

Last Friday the Rock Hill Herald carried almost six columns of reading matter about a mass meeting and the various and sundry recommendations and things which had been done by many thought should not have been done. The manner in which the bonds are being handled and the manner in which they were supposed to be handled will, according to reports submitted, cause a loss of more than $200,000 to Rock Hill besides the fact that they will secure $37,500 less work.

The few following paragraphs will give our readers some idea of what is going on in Rock Hill:

"We are of the opinion that council has exceeded the limits of reasonable discretion in assuming this additional cost."

"In this connection we must mention the fact that the Rock Hill bonds of this year, four months after the bonds had been voted, one of the local banks submitted a written offer to the council to take the $250,000 worth of bonds (that is, the sewer and water bonds and $100,000 of street bonds) bearing 5 percent interest and the price to be paid and accrued interest. A condition attached to this offer was that the council cancel the sale of the balance of the bonds and the price to be paid and accrued interest. EQUABLE PROTECTIVE TARIFF IS ADVOCATED

Southern Tariff Congress Opposes American Congress Along Similar Lines Proposed.

New Orleans, Oct. 11. - Governors, United States senators, congressmen, representatives of leading industries of the South and a candidate for the presidency of the United States advocated an equable protective tariff at the opening session here today of the southern tariff congress.

Expectations tonight were that efforts would be made tomorrow to remove the general tariff restrictions and organize an American tariff congress along the lines of the one now in session.

Senator Warren O. Harding in a letter read to the congress by President Kirby expressed his congratulations over the fact that the South was in a position to have today of the traditions and sectional feeling and destined to join the advanced spirit of progress. He said he believed the tariff now is the best of the South, and the needs of a non-discriminatory protective tariff.

THOUSANDS OF GEORGIA NEGROES COMING HOME

Macon, Ga., Oct. 13. - Thousands of Georgia negroes who migrated to the north and east soon after the outbreak of the war, lured by high wages in industrial plants, are returning to Georgia and are being employed by a number of the state's employers for tickets on which to travel back to Dixie.

Stories appearing in the newspapers that they have been thrown out of employment and now find themselves faced with the prospect of a hard winter in a strange land, are sending appeals to the state for tickets on which to travel back to Dixie.

A NEBRASKA WHEAT TOWN WHEN THE GRAIN BEGINS TO MOVE

The shortage of railway cars has been one of the tragedies of the great wheat-growing sections of the West, both following the harvest of last year and the harvest just past.

The coming of the "empty" means life and prosperity to the little shipping centers no less than to the nation at large. Big Springs, Neb., is one of the centers from which a trickle of grain recently started to join the great river now flowing from west to east. This colorful description appeared in the Big Springs Progress.

One who has never been in the wheat belt of western Nebraska and northeastern Colorado can even imagine the activity a community assumes when word is passed along that "cars" are available to move the wheat-growers' cars.

Many have witnessed the activity of Western wheat towns when the railroads are running, or have stood in awe of the hurry and bustle of Wisconsin logging-camps when the spring floods lift the first of the winter-cut timber from the banks.

Where it has laid for many months waiting the spring thaw. Sugar-beet raisers are aware of the activity of the beet towns when the railroads are running, or have stood in awe of the hurry and bustle of Wisconsin logging-camps when the spring floods lift the first of the winter-cut timber from the banks.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15.

WORK AND SAVE NOW.

During this transition period it would not be a bad idea to save. At this time when conditions are so far from normal, it would have saved one from having to pay in whatever occupation they may find themselves. Conditions are not going to remain as they are for "times immemorial." There is bound to come a change and that before many more moons have come and gone.

The wise man will keep in at the job he has now in hand, doing his best at all times and constantly putting a little for the proverbial rainy day. That day is bound to come in all wage earners.

Properly with a big P is with us now. Labor of all kinds is commanding wages now, but it was hardly dreamed of a few years ago. These wages are being spent with a lavish hand that takes no thought of the morrow.

People today work or least as well, as the whim seizes them, and apparently unconcerned as to the morrow or the next day, oblivious of all save themselves. Scarcely they give no thought as to what effect their actions have on the privations of the general public by preventing the vital machinery of commerce and industry from functioning.

But a change is already pending. Prices have begun to decline. Some commodities can be bought now for much less than they could a few weeks ago. Still greater declines are expected in the next few weeks to come. When these have gotten hold to somewhere normal there is every reason to believe that wages will begin to take a downward trend and then the awful specter of idleness will be brought to realize how important it is that they should have saved during the period of great prosperity.

Not only this but already there are vast hordes from other countries that are knocking at the doors of this country asking for admission. The vanguard of 50,000 souls arrived during the last month, and this month it is expected this number will be greatly enhanced.

When the tide of migration gets fully set toward this country there will be dumped into it millions of eager, hungry workers, willing to snap up at almost any wage, that are now being so contemptuously regarded by the fat, idle workers of today, and it is then that they will recognize the truthfulness of the statements made herewith. They have brought home to them with full force the old saying that it is a long lane that never turns and that it is their duty to have made hay while the sun shone, and it will be too late for them to profit by.

The license for selling blind tip-whiskey is much less than it was before the days of prohibition. And the beauty about it is that a fellow only has to pay when he is caught up with.

The cotton situation must be saved. It is not a local question but a general one. Very much so here in the South. It is to be hoped the cotton exports plan will do the business.

Our observation has been that the public servant is just as troublesome as any other kind of servant.

There is too little home government today for the good of the country. Too much of this having to go to headquarters for instruction as to how we shall run our own affairs.

Almost any expedient is justifiable now as a means of helping the cotton farmer over the trying situation, in which he now finds himself. It is to be hoped he will learn a lesson and hereafter not put his eggs all in one basket, also that it is possible to make a crop without swapping his farm for fertilizer.

If you hear a strange noise these days, don't think for a moment that it is the consumer shaking down the coal in the furnace. It is the coal dealer shaking down the consumer.

The news is forthcoming from an advertisement in the daily papers that Governor Cull of Florida, left to go on the road for a string of stores after his term of office expires. He would if this is the time. Cull who told the people of Florida that they had but three friends—Cull, who died for them; George F. Rutherford, who did not; and Sidney J. Cull, who gave them a chance to vote for him.

POCKET MONEY WASTE.

Failure to Deposit in the Bank Costs the Country Many Millions.

It may give one a pleasant feeling to carry around a pocketful of money, a huge roll of greenbacks, or a burning wallet, but in the public mind the editor of Forbes. "It is nothing less than a crime to withdraw money from the banks and hoard it in one's pockets, carrying unnecessarily large amounts in the pocket," insists he, and he asks employers and editors all through the country to draw the attention of wage earners to the injury they are inflicting upon themselves by carrying fat wallets instead of promptly depositing every possible dollar in either the savings-bank or some other financial institution, thus making the money available for all sorts of business purposes." One day recently we read in Forbes:

"A manufacturer took a census of his four hundred workmen to find out how much money they had in their pockets. The average was $28. If the Steel Corporation's workmen each carried the same amount, the total for them would be almost $8,000,000. The American Telephone Company's employees would have something like $5,000,000 similarly withdrawn from business channels. And if half the people in America were to carry round with them twenty-eight dollars each, the total would reach the staggering figure of $1,500,000,000.

This practice, more ripe today than ever before, of carrying around large amounts of currency is an economic crime. It tends to increase the cost of living. It checks the development of the nation's resources. It retards enterprise. It reduces the banks' ability to furnish credit to the industrial and business world. It forces interest rates up. It fosters caution, even pessimism, among the banking fraternity. The holders of the nation's purchasing power, and it hurts the workman by reducing the amount of business which could and would be done were money available in more plentiful banking channels. It will hasten the business depression which nearly all experts declare is bound to come sooner or later.

And, consequently, it makes for unemployment.

If everybody in America were to carry around twenty-eight dollars it would represent a sum greater than all the gold in the land. It would more than equal half the total currency in circulation in the United States.

Because a fellow does not always accept your point of view, does not imply that he is a bigger fool than you.

So far we have not heard of a South Carolina woman coming here but in the time now offering to be her election.

LOST CERTIFICATE.

Notice is hereby given that Chester County Farmers' Warehouse Certificate No. 77 for one bale of cotton has been lost and that application has been made for duplicate.

A marriage of interest to hundreds of friends throughout North and South Carolina was that of Miss Mary Dunavent, of Columbia, and Mr. E. L. Warlick, of Newton, N. C., which was solemnized yesterday evening at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Allen, on York street. Only close friends and relatives of the bride and groom were present for the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. S. Ray Riddle, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Lenoirville.

Mrs. Warlick is the daughter of Mr. John W. Dunavent and is one of South Carolina's most accomplished and popular young women. Mr. Warlick is a prominent young business man of Newton and is associated with his father in the manufacturing business. The young couple left after the ceremony for an extended northern trip after which they will be at home in Newton.

Many out-of-town youths from various sections of the Carolinas were present for the wedding.

They say you wrote about a fellow in his job and cause sorrow in his household about liquor before he is through with it."

That labor is assuming a different attitude toward work is in evidence every day. The News reporter heard a man talking to a blacksmith yesterday about some work and the man told the blacksmith, "Boss, you see how about that job 'fore you see it done." "Before?" "Yes," "Boss," said the blacksmith, "I 'spec I can do it cheaper long about than then I can now." "You know things are now changing fast and jobs is twice as hard as 'fore long. Boss, you see how about that job 'fore you see it done."

Every person in the South knows that the present cotton crop is the most expensive one grown in years and that the present price will nothing like cover the cost of production. Large advances have been made to growers this year and maybe they will get out of debt, we do not know but we do know that this time next year the grower will not owe the merchant or the landlord as much money as he does now. Advances on the 1921 crop of cotton will be made with extreme caution.

Very little cotton is being sold on the Chester market these days and the little that is being sold appears to be done by people who have made obligations which are coming due, and the cotton is being sold to satisfy the obligations. We understand some people do not even want to sell any cotton to satisfy their debts, which is not exactly the proper thing to do. We heard a farmer express the matter in a very business-like way a few days ago. He said: "The farmer has made an obligation which falls due it certainly is as little as he can do to call on the man or bank whom he owes and make satisfactory arrangements about the debt. I am one farmer who knows that other people have debts which must be paid as well as myself and they cannot pay them unless they get the money. I don't believe in holding cotton at the expense of some one else. Pay your debts and then sit down in the balance of your crop until the horn blows," he said.

SAVE TIME AND LABOR

In the present age there is no excuse for a housewife to depend upon the old-style iron and stove in order to iron clothes. The old-style is slow and is very hard work.

Ironing at its best is a tiresome job and such being the case every one should have an Electric Iron in the home, even for the little jobs that come up almost daily. The cost is very small, so why do without such a convenience?
